Homecoming '87

Celebration And Tradition

Preparation for Homecoming began with the football team choosing the nine maids for the court. The high school student body then elected the homecoming queen from the three senior maids.

The week of Homecoming was filled with a variety of activities, including a dress up day, and a door decorating contest.

At the pre-game presentation the maids were driven around the field in convertibles to the fifty yard line of the visitors side. There they were met by their fathers who escorted them to the center of the field for the presentation of the Queen, Sarah Davis.

The post game presentation of the court, with each maid escorted by a senior of junior football player, and the crowning of the queen, was conducted prior to the homecoming dance.

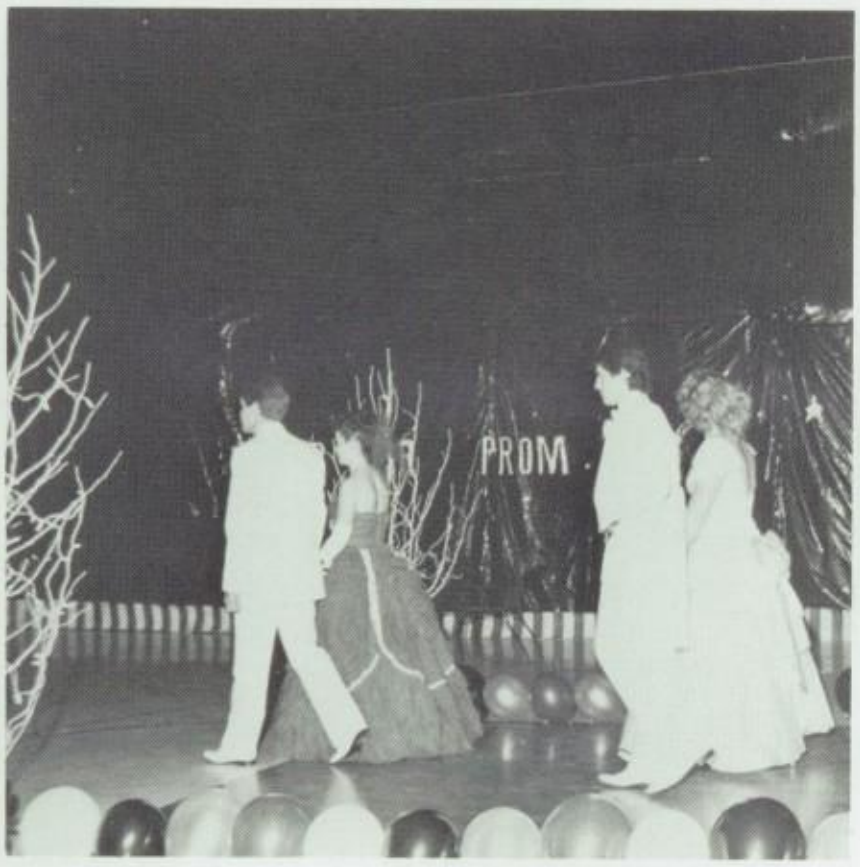
Junior-Senior Banquet And Prom

I Won't Forget You

PROM QUEEN DEBBIE STEWART — PROM KING RANDY TRAVIS

Friday, April 8, 1988



Months of planning, weeks of preparation, and days of work produced "I Won't Forget You", the Juniors' tribute to the Senior Class.

The banquet set the theme for evening's event. Decorations were carried out in red, black and silver. A large skyline backdrop, featuring a huge top hat, was the main feature of the decorations.

The banquet program consisted of the invocation by Denise Duncan, opening remarks and the Junior Class toast to the Seniors by Mikki Stephens, the Senior Class toast to the Juniors presented by Scott Eckholdt, presentation of gifts to the Junior Class sponsors and closing remarks by Kelly Durnin.

The gym decorations depicted a Paris street scene. The entrance to the gym, a covered walkway with bold black and white building scenes on each side and a black sky overhead, led to a open courtyard. Across the courtyard a large canopy covered doorway beckoned the prom goers the dance area.
